First Look

Long weekend

As a reward for "superior performance" during the Tanker Task Force beddown, Operation Iraqi Freedom and the Atlantic Summit, the commander has issued a time-off award for all American and Portuguese appropriated and non-appropriated fund employees. She has also declared May 23 a U.S. Forces Azores Goal Day.

Clean out medicine cabinet

It's time to clean out the medicine cabinet. Representatives from the pharmacy will be outside the commissary May 17, 10 a.m.-2 p.m. to collect any old medicine.

Enlisted dining out

There's an enlisted dining out at 7 p.m., May 17 at the Top of the Rock Club. Guest speaker is retired Chief Master Sgt. of the Air Force Robert Gaylor who was adviser to Secretary of the Air Force John Stetson and Chiefs of Staff of the Air Force Gen. David Jones and Gen. Lew Allen Jr.

See next week's Crossroads for the rules of the mess. For more, call Senior Master Sgt. Mark Johnson at 2-6337.

Right to privacy

Medical group officials are required to give patients a copy of the Notice of Privacy Practices during appointments at the clinic. A copy is also available at www.tricare.osd.mil/hipaa. For more, call Capt. Michael Orr at 2-2335.

NCO retraining program begins

Air Force Print News

THE PENTAGON — The Air Force has started the voluntary phase of its fiscal 2003 and 2004 NCO retaining program.

The program is designed to help the Air Force balance its enlisted force by moving NCOs in specialties with surpluses to those with shortages, personnel officials said. It consists of two phases — voluntary and involuntary.

The voluntary phase of the program is set to run through June 6. The involuntary phase, if needed, is scheduled to run June 20 through Aug. 15.

While every effort is made to attract volunteers, some airmen may be selected for involuntary retraining if the number of volunteers falls short, officials said.

Airmen in eligible career fields should look to their supervisors and leadership to help them make informed choices.

This year, officials seek to move about 1,400 midlevel NCOs into shortage specialties. The fiscal 2004 program will target approximately 2,000-2,500.

The imbalances in the midlevel NCO grades have occurred because of personnel force structure changes, differing retention trends among specialties and the equality of promotions across all skills, officials said.

The retraining program seeks to carefully balance member expectations with the needs of the Air Force, officials said.

Several new features have been added to the program this year to make implementation smoother.

The selection criterion is no longer based solely upon seniority. Selections are made across all eligible year groups mirroring assignment eligibility.

For example, once all ineligible NCOs have been removed from consideration, everyone left will be sorted by the date they arrived on station. Those with the most time will appear at the top of the list for involuntary retraining.

Wing commanders may recommend assignment curtailments of up to six months, except at remote tour locations or those requiring 100-percent manning.

The total active federal military service date requirement was extended by six months to increase the pool of eligible NCOs. In addition, military personnel flights will provide local commanders, first sergeants, career assistance advisers and supervisors with a comprehensive briefing regarding the program, officials said.

Vulnerability listings by grade and Air Force specialty code will be updated weekly.

Airmen "at risk" for involuntary retraining may access their relative standing on the World Wide Web at <https://www.afpc.randolph.af.mil/enlskills/Retraining>.

Personnel officials encourage eligible NCOs to consider a special duty assignment such as the recruiting field, military training instructor, first sergeant duty or professional military education instructor.

For more, call Airman 1st Class Jen Parker at 2-5143.

Pin honors parents

A new program will help airmen honor those who are often their biggest supporters — their parents.

All uniformed airmen can now sign their parents up to receive a new "Parent" lapel pin. The pins are about three-fourths inch square and feature a silver letter "P" cradled within the Air Force symbol.

A personalized letter to the parents from Secretary of the Air Force Dr. James G. Roche and Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. John P. Jumper will accompany the pins.

"We could not protect America's freedom without the incredible people who are willing to carry on the Air Force tradition," the letter reads. "As the proud parents of one of those airmen, your support continues to be critical to our ongoing efforts and makes a real difference to our country."

Those who would like their parents to get the "Parent" pin can sign up at <http://www.yourguardiansoffreedom.com>. Signing up will require airmen to enter the names and addresses of up to two parents or parental figures. The program is voluntary and comes at no cost to those participating.

The pin program is a contemporary adaptation of a public support campaign carried out during World War II.

Wanted: Recruiters

The Air Force is currently looking for 66 new recruiters.

Senior airmen through master sergeants with 17 or less years in service, who are within one year of their established date of return from overseas can apply if they don't already have an assignment. Follow-ons don't apply.

Application deadline is May 30.

For more, call Senior Master Sgt. Barbara Steffen at 2-6197 or click on <https://aerc.af.mil/dp/recruiter/assignments.htm> or <http://www.rs.af.mil/RTR.htm>.

Families return to Incirlik

State Department officials announced May 1 that family members who were part of the authorized departure instituted March 18 are now allowed to return to Incirlik AB, Turkey.

Family support centers in the area of departed airmen will be advising them how to coordinate a government travel request and will answer other questions family members might have.

Running 1K miles

After completing his goal of running 500 miles during a 90-day tour at Incirlik AB, Turkey, Lt. Col. Rod Matte extended his running goal to 1,000 miles when his tour of duty was extended to 150 days.

Running the equivalent of a marathon — 25 miles — every two days for the last three weeks, Matte has pushed himself hard to complete his goal of another 500 miles in only two months.

For the first 500 miles, he was running 4.5 miles per day, sometimes twice a day. He said he wasn't able to run as often during the war so he had to run 10 to 15 miles per day for the last three weeks.

Matte was deployed along with more than 1,400 United Kingdom, Turkish and U.S. troops who made up Operation Northern Watch, enforcing the northern no-fly zone and monitoring Iraqi forces to determine compliance with U.N. Security Council resolutions.

Commanders issue Articles 15s

Crossroads staff

Commanders from different units at Lajes have issued six Articles 15s in the past three months.

The nonjudicial punishments were issued to airmen and NCOs for a variety of violations.

The commanders imposed the punishments after consultation with the staff judge advocate. The punishments vary based on the offense and the facts surrounding each case. According to officials from the staff judge advocate's office, commanders impose punishment sufficient to rehabilitate the member.

The following are violations and punishments received:

- Two staff sergeants were punished for viewing pornography on their government computer. Both received suspended reductions to senior airman and reprimands.

- A staff sergeant received a suspended reduction to senior airman, 45 days extra duty and a reprimand for dereliction of duty for failure to file a travel voucher for seven months after receiving advance pay.

- A staff sergeant received a suspended reduction to senior airman and forfeiture of $250 per month for two months for dereliction of duty for faking a medical condition.

- An airman 1st class received a suspended reduction to airman and a reprimand for assaulting a law enforcement official.

- An airman 1st class was reduced in rank to airman and received 30 days extra duty for driving while intoxicated off base.

At Their Best

Quarterly award winners

Five airmen and four civilians were named tops in the 65th Air Base Wing for the first quarter of 2003. The quarterly award recipients and their categories are:

Darcie Arnold, 729th Air Mobility Squadron, U.S. civilian, category I; Vera Vitorino, 65th Civil Engineer Squadron, Portuguese civilian, category I; Julio Ochoa, 65th CES, U.S. civilian, category II; Antonio Avila, 65th CES, Portuguese civilian, category II; Staff Sgt. Amanda Starkey, 65th Operation Support Squadron, airman; Staff Sgt. Ramon Soler, 65th Services Squadron, NCO; Airman 1st Class Raul Saucedo, 65th Communications squadron, honor guard; Master Sgt. Michael Lake, 65th CES, senior NCO; and Capt. Michael Mayo, 65th Logistics Readiness Squadron, company grade officer.

Scholarship recipients

Congratulations to two Lajes High School seniors who recently received scholarships.

Kimberly Andersen received the $1,500 Defense Commissary

Agency scholarship. Along with an application, Andersen was also required to submit a 500-word essay on "How has being the child of a military servicemember influenced your educational goals?" The scholarship program is open to the children of all active duty, reserve, guard, retired and deceased military members. At least one scholarship was given to each commissary world wide.

Brittany Groudreau was recently named as the USAFE

Youth of the Year and awarded a $3,000 scholarship. She went on to compete for the entire European region and won at that level. She will now travel to New York City, and compete in the Youth of the Year Northeast Region.

COMMENTARY

Commander honors 'Force for Freedom'

by Gen. Gregory S. Martin
USAFE commander

RAMSTIEN AB, Germany — It has been more than 50 years since President Harry Truman signed the proclamation establishing Armed Forces Day as the third Saturday in May.

This is the day when our nation pauses to honor the courage and dedication of America's soldiers, sailors, airmen, Marines and Coast Guardsmen.

Much has changed in the last 50 years. We fought conflicts in Korea and Vietnam; we sent troops to Grenada, Lebanon, Panama, Somalia, Bosnia, Kosovo, Haiti, the Persian Gulf and then came the tragic events of September 11, 2001.

In two horrific hours, America and its allies found themselves confronting an entirely new set of adversaries. These enemies didn't give formal declarations of their intentions; they struck without warning, killing more than 3,000 innocent men, women and children.

In an instant, it became very apparent that it was time to call on America's Armed Forces once again — our sons and daughters, brothers and sisters, husbands and wives — who are willing to risk all they have to defend freedom and our way of life.

And these great professionals made all of us proud as they freed the people of Afghanistan from the oppressive Taliban regime that also harbored the nerve center of the Al Qaida terrorist network.

Recently, we have seen those same professionals liberate the people of Iraq during Operation IRAQI Freedom, and then turn their attention to the humanitarian relief efforts necessary to ensure freedom and progress for people of Iraq.

Please join me as we celebrate Armed Forces Day May 17, held in conjunction with Armed Forces Week Saturday through May 18.

This year's theme "Force for Freedom" is very appropriate as we pay tribute to the service members who serve our nation every day; from the flight line to the front line, whether on the home front or far away from home — they are truly the guardians of our freedom and they are the world's finest fighting force.

Azoreans welcome Holy Ghost festivals

by Eduardo Lima Community Relations
Adviser

Spring brings nice weather and festivals to the Azores. One of particular interest is the celebration of the Holy Ghost festivals.

This religious celebration runs from Easter Sunday for eight weeks until Pentecost and Trinity Sunday.

This ancient religious tradition probably began on mainland Portugal around 1296, by initiative of Queen Isabel. She founded the first Holy Ghost brotherhood to honor the poorest man in the kingdom.

According to tradition, every year the poorest man in the kingdom was placed on the king's throne and crowned "emperor" during a religious ceremony held in his honor in the royal church.

Following the crowning ceremony, a royal procession took the crowned man from the church to the palace, for a banquet in his honor.

The tradition was first introduced in the Azores around 1432. It has all but disappeared in the mainland. It's still actively celebrated here and in Azorean communities in the United States, Canada and Brazil.

Although originally celebrated by royalty and noblemen, this festival was adopted by common people and silver crowns replaced the royal crown.

During natural disasters like volcanic eruptions and earthquakes, or when someone is seriously ill, the Azorean people carry the Holy Ghost crowns to the churches and pray for the victims.

If their prayers are answered, they host a week-long festival to honor the Holy Ghost.

During the season, previously selected members of the brotherhood are given the honor of keeping the Holy Ghost crowns, flags and other ornaments at their homes in a wooden altar decorated with white paper and flowers.

In the evenings, festival hosts, relatives and other guests gather in front of the altar to pray the rosary and worship the Holy Ghost.

Then, on Thursday or Friday afternoon, it's time for the "festa do bezerro" (festival of the calves).

The calves, usually two, are fetched from the pastures and are paraded through the streets after being decorated with flowers, paper ribbons and cowbells. The calves usually lead the parade followed by the hosts, guests and musicians and singers.

Later in the afternoon, the calves are slaughtered and their meat is divided in different portions. Some is saved for the Sunday banquet, while the remaining is given as alms to relatives and the village's poorest people.

Activities start early on Sundays with preparation of the food. Guests start arriving at the hosts' house before noon, and the Holy Ghost parade heads toward the church for the crowning ceremony during Mass.

After the priest blesses the crowns, and selected people — usually the hosts' children or the hosts themselves — are "crowned," the procession heads back to the house with the honorees wearing the crowns.

Later in the afternoon, hundreds of guests take a seat for a banquet of Holy Ghost soup, boiled beef, alcatra, sweet bread and the local wine "vinho de cheiro."

Finally, the last event of the week is when the hosts and guests take the crowns and flags, again in a parade, to the next honoree's home, where a similar celebration begins again, this time for a new family.

Saluting Lajes' new leader

Crossroads staff

More than 500 American and Portuguese Team Lajes members welcomed Col. Barbara Jacobi during a change of command ceremony Wednesday morning.

The colonel accepted the dual-hatted position as U.S. Forces Azores and the 65th Air Base Wing commander.

Jacobi comes to Lajes from MacDill AFB, Fla., where she served as the commander of the 6th Mission Support Group.

Gen. Charles Wald, deputy commander, U.S. European Command and Maj. Gen. Michael Wooley, 3rd Air Force commander officiated the ceremony.

As the new commander, Jacobi spoke of Lajes' reputation throughout the Air Force.

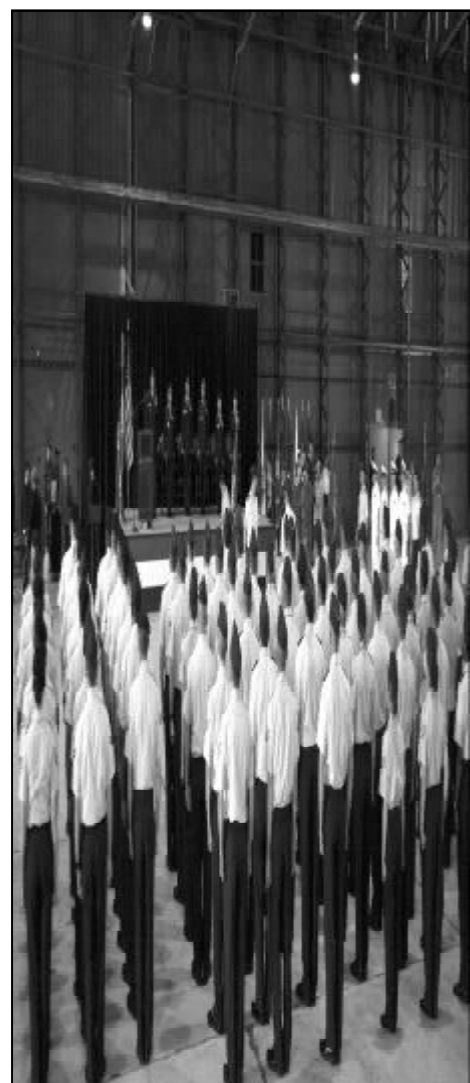

"When I found out I was going to come here, I was amazed at the number of people telling me great things about the mission, the people and the Azores," she said.

She promised a "seamless transition" and issued a challenge to Team Lajes.

"The only challenge I have for you today is to continue on with the same enthusiastic can-do spirit, dedication and devotion to duty that Colonel Fedder proudly refers to as the trademarks of this base."

She also touched on the relationship Lajes shares with its Portuguese hosts saying she had heard much about the outstanding support they provide to the American community here.

"I look forward to continuing to build on that already strong relationship," she said.
